Randy Friedman

Companies worldwide are implementing Randy's human factor approach, The ACE Program and Employee Mentorship Training.

Businesses large and small benefit greatly from Randy's presentations that move and motivate members of the group into a happier place within themselves. The creation of a happy environment is the first part of the human factor as it relates to individuals and the work place. Randy's unique team building skills and positive attitude mentality in the workplace, reinforces the companies mission and accountability standards. Some company benefits include increased worker moral, better performance, enhanced productivity and reduced workplace accidents.

There is a direct correlation between increased worker discontent and reported work place accidents. When employees are happy to go to work and have a reason to stay at work there are less workers compensation claims. Employers who promote positive work place attitude along with reinforced safety incentives have reduced there annual loss ratios. This ultimately impacts the companies bottom line.

Randy's powerful message introduces a new mental attitude and aptitude that enables a "win-win" environment for the employee and the employer. Benefits go beyond the business world and into everyday lives.
